The Weekly News and Register.

FRIDAY, July 3, 1730. NUMB. XII.

The Remonstrance of the Parliament of Rouen to the Most Christian King, against the registring of his Majesty's Declaration, in favour of the Constitution Unigenitus, is a very remarkable Piece; and tho' a Letter of Command from the King inforced the said Registry, and prevented this Remonstrance's taking Place, it has nevertheless been made public, and is as follows.

SIRE,

WE should think ourselves wanting in the Fidelity we owe to your Majesty's Sacred Person, and in the particular Confidence with which you are pleased to honour us, by expecting from us the Execution of your Will, should we dissemble the just Cause of Fear which your new Declaration, concerning the Constitution Unigenitus, has given us.

In the Year 1714, when this Bull, authorized by the late King your Great Grandfather's Letters Patents, first appeared in all the Parliaments of your Kingdom, every Body was astonished at the Condemnation they found therein, of the 91st Proposition taken out of the Book of Moral Reflexions. The Magistrates, considering the Rights of the Crown, and the Sacred Maxims of our Forefathers, thought it their Duty to erect Bulwarks against the Introduction of that Decree into France, capable of withstanding the Pretensions of the Ultramontanes.

Your Majesty, always zealous for the Interests of Religion, applied all your Care, in 1720, to procure the Peace of the Church. You admitted the Explanations which were drawn up by the Clergy of your Kingdom; and you sent us your Declaration, to make this Peace known to all your Subjects. Your Parliaments published it, Sire; but being persuaded, that the finishing of that Work depended upon the Court of Rome, they thought it their Duty to guard themselves against the Tenets of that Court, if they should refuse to contribute to the fulfilling of your Pious Intention.

And therefore, in the Arrets of 1714 and 1720, for registring the Constitution Unigenitus, there were wise and prudent Restrictions.

Upon reading the Beginning of your new Declaration, wherein you commend your Courts of Parliament for having done their Duty in maintaining the Rights of your Crown, and the Liberties of the Gallican Church; we flattered ourselves, Sire, that we would meet with nothing that should hinder our registring the Dispositions of that Declaration. Nevertheless, the IIId. Article revived our Apprehensions. If that Article seems at first Sight to confirm the Letters Patents of the 14th of February 1714, and your Declaration of the 4th of August 1720, with the Restrictions contained in the Arrets of Registration, it at the same Time ordains, that the Constitution Unigenitus shall be inviolably observed, according to its Form and Tenor: This last Disposition, Sire, seems point-blank to contradict the other; for to ordain that this Bull shall be observed according to its Form and Tenor, is as much as to command, that it shall be observed in the same Manner as it was published by the the Court of Rome; that is, free from all Restrictions.

Moreover, the same Article makes the Bull a Law of the Church and State, and injoins all your Subjects to pay it that Respect and Submission, which are due to the Judgment of the Universal Church, in Point of Doctrine.

Sire, the Safety of your Sacred Person, the Rights and Independency of your Crown, and the Liberties of the Church of your Kingdom ought not to be grounded upon Equivocal Dispositions, which leave Room for Constructions that may be serviceable to the Ultramontanes, in Support of their Doctrine concerning the Temporals of Kings; and we have more than ordinary Reason to be fearful of such Constructions, at a Time when the Legend of Gregory VII. stamped with the Impression of the unlimited Power of the Court of Rome, shew the secret Motives of the Condemnation of the 91st Proposition so clearly, that there is no Room for any Doubt about them.

That Proposition, Sire, which imports, That the Fear of an unjust Excommunication ought not to hinder us from doing our Duty, tends to the better Confirmation of the Rights of your Crown: This is condemned by the Bull. We are startled at the Consequences of their Condemnation; because it thence naturally follows, that an unjust Excommunication ought to hinder us from doing our Duty; and thus would your Majesty's Subjects, whenever the Court of Rome thinks fit to threaten them with the Thunder of Excommunication, be discharged from the Oath of Fidelity which they owe to your Majesty, and might give themselves up to all the Extravagancies of Disobedience: But our Fear increases every Day, when we reflect, that the Legend which does a Pope the Honour to rank among the Saints one who reckoned it a Privilege annexed to his Dignity, to exercise an Authority of dethroning Emperors and Kings, and disposing of their Crowns as he pleased, came from the same Hand and the same Power that published the Constitution Unigenitus. What Difficulties, Sire, nay, what dismal Consequences may we expect, if the Subjects, being accustomed to look upon the Constitution as a Law of the Universal Church in Point of Doctrine, as it is called in your Declaration, should persuade themselves, that there are certain Occasions wherein they may fall off from their Fidelity to their King! We have but too many Instances of this. If you will please to call to mind what was done in the Popedoms of Paul IV. Pius V. Sixtus V. and Gregory XIV. what abominable Predictions will you there behold! But no, Sire, permit us to save your Majesty the Recital of those dire Events!

We are forced, therefore, to have Recourse to your Majesty, to prevent any ill Use that may be made of your Law; and those whom you have particularly charged with the Execution of your Will, ought most humbly to represent to you all their Uneasiness, be it never so minute; especially, when the Danger threatens the State, our precious Liberties, and the Safety of your Majesty's Person. But, Oh! what faithful Subject can be free from just Inquietude, Sire, when your Declaration admits of the Constitution as a Law of the Universal Church? The Doctrine of the Bull tallies exactly enough with that of Gregory VII's Legend; permit us to say more properly, it is the same: Nevertheless, almost all the Bishops of France kept a profound Silence when this new Service came out: Were they afraid of exposing themselves to the utmost Extravagancies, with which the Court of Rome proceeded against one of their Body, who had the noble Courage to forbid the Use of it? Some of your Parliaments, Sire, had the Advantage of giving Proofs of their inviolable Attachment to you, by suppressing that dangerous Legend; others had the same Zeal; and the Parliament of Normandy, particularly devoted to your Sacred Majesty's Person and Interest, expects a free Scope to be given to the secret Motives of their Disdain.

We are farther obliged, Sire, to represent to your Majesty, that several Bishops had already declared, upon particular Occasions, that the Bull Unigenitus was a Dogmatical Sentence, and that we ought to submit to it heartily and sincerely. The Firmness of your Courts of Justice, in suppressing their Mandates, banished that Qualification for a while. We have since seen it strenuously and openly asserted, in a Thesis printed and published in this City the 12th of May last Year, that the Bull was a Rule of Faith. We are moreover informed, that it has been boldly asserted in your City of Caen, that in a Quality of a Rule of Faith, all Roman Catholics ought to pay an intire Obedience to the Bull. These are so many Criminal Efforts, made Use of to invest the Court of Rome with a Judicial and Sovereign Power, and to render that of your Majesty dependent upon it: But we cannot pass over in Silence these dangerous Consequences, nor admit, as a Decision of the Universal Church, a Constitution which manifestly attacks your Rights, undermines the Foundations of your Throne, and fills the Minds of your Subjects with pernicious Scruples, concerning the Independency of your Crown.

What will become of this happy Independency, Sire, if the Bull should ever obtain the Titles which some Men have been so long endeavouring to secure to it, and which we read with Sorrow in your Declaration: The Restrictions made Use of by your Courts would prove but slender Fences to resist the Torrent of the Encroachments of Rome. The Pope will henceforward assume to himself the Power of rendering the Arrets of your Parliaments of no Effect. the Brief, of the 19th of November last, is a Presumption of this Sort, adventured in the Sight of all Europe, which must fill every Body with Apprehensions of a Power that would make itself Despotic in the Church; and upon these Principles, Men may some time or other be brought to assert, that it is vain for a Temporal and Spiritual Power to pretend to mitigate a Law of the Universal Church.

The extensive Power which the Fifth Article of the same Declaration gives the Bishops, to admit to Ecclesiastical Dignities or Benefices, or to reject, such Clergymen as shall be found within the Purlieus of that Article, will not suffer us to be silent, Sire, as to the bad Use that may be made of so extensive a Power. The Kings your Predecessors introduced Appeals in certain Cases, to keep the Authority of the Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction within its due Bounds. Your Declaration takes from the Chief Magistrates the Cognizance of all Causes, which derive from the Bull Unigenitus. Will you leave your Subjects, Sire, at the Mercy of the Bishops, even in their own Case; for they are the only Judges of Words spoken against the Episcopate? Shall those Words, sometimes unwarily dropt, very often wickedly misrepresented, and always aggravated in every Circumstance, be taken for lawful and sufficient Motives of Rejection?

Shall the Benefices of the Clergy, who, more out of Scruple of Conscience than the Spirit of Obstinacy, refuse to answer the ensnaring and equivocal Questions that may be put to them, be declared vacant pleno jure, without requiring any other Sentence?

There remains for us, Sire, to represent to you one Grievance more, arising, from the too great Powers given to the Bishops by your Declaration, especially with regard to your Province of Normandy. The Benefices there are for the most Part in the Gift of Patrons and particular Lordships. Must the Gentlemen and the Officers, who are better versed in their Duty to your Majesty in the Field, than in Temporal Concerns, run the Hazard of losing their Collation, if they have Regard only to the good Morals of the Person? Are the Bishops to be Masters of them, as well as of all the other Ecclesiastical Benefices in the Province? Are the Patrons to be entangled in Law-Suits, upon every frivolous Pretence, to maintain their Rights, or have Persons put into their Livings, who may frequently be disagreeable to them? And lastly, will they not by this Means be unjustly deprived of one of the noblest Privileges of their Estates?

These are the Mischiefs, Sire, which we are to expect; but the most Important and the most Urgent regard your Majesty's Sacred Person, Would your Parliament be excusable, if they dissembled this to you? Their Silence in Matters of so great Importance, would certainly make them Accessary to the repeated and so often renewed Enterprizes of the Court of Rome, against the Safety of your Crown and the State.

Accept then, Sire, as a Proof of the most perfect Fidelity, and the most inviolable Attachment, this most humble and most respectful Remonstrance of

Your Most Obedient
And Most Devoted Subjects and Servants,
The Members of your Parliament at Rouen,
Signed,

Sequel of the Journal from the Saxon Camp at Muhlberg; begun in our last.——Dated June 23.

On the 17th Inst. the Army marched in the Manner of the Phalanx, or Square Battalions, according to the Practice of the Ancients, which represented the Order of Battel the Grecians made Use of in fighting against their Enemies, and made an incomparable fine Sight. There was one Phalanx of Infantry, and two of Calvalry, which after having marched some Time in that Order, formed themselves into two Lines: The whole Army turned by Way of the Center, and put themselves in Order, after which they retreated fighting as far as the Camp, the whole being perfectly well executed. The 18th, the King of Prussia went to hear a Sermon, and dined at Count Wackerbath's Tent, with the Duke of Saxe Weimar, and in the Evening there was an Italian Comedy acted. The 19th, the whole Army began a new March, which at first represented nine great Squares: The Infantry being afterwards formed into a long Square, was attacked by the Horse, which was briskly repulsed by the Cannon, Grenades and Musket Shot: The Foot finding themselves too much pressed, formed another long Squre, and were again attacked several times in their Retreat, by the whole Cavalry, with so much Eagerness, that they had much ado to draw back some Squadrons who stood the Fire, having the Heads of their Horses upon the Bayonets. Gen. Bauditz received in this Action a Shot which burnt his Cravat. At last the Retreat was made in two Columns by Defiles, in a Manner which was never practised before, and was judged to be of great Use, by those skilled in the Art Military. The 20th, the Regiment of Tall Grenadiers exercised in Presence of the two Kings and Count Ratouski, who is their Commander, afterwards entertained the K. of Prussia in a very splendid Manner. The same Day, the K. of Poland went to view the Ground where his Majesty designed to pass the Elbe with his Army, which was performed the 21st, when Part of the Army passed the River, and intrenched themselves, but were afterwards attacked by the main Body of the Army, commanded by Count Wackerbath, who was at last repulsed. In this Action two Soldiers were killed, and one wounded by Accidents: Never was any Artillery made Uſe of with ſo much Dexterity and Art as on this Occaſion, two large Pieces of Cannon being diſcharged ſix times in a Minute. The 22d the King of Pruſſia went to dine with the Prince Royal of Poland, and was moſt magnificently regaled. The Military Exerciſes were ended this Day by a pitched Battle, the whole Army being divided into two Bodies, one of which was commanded by the Velt Marſhal Count Wackerbach, and the other by the Duke of Saxe Weiſſenfels, who, after having loſt the Battel, made a fine Retreat. The Margrave of Anſpach arrived here this Morning. Sir Charles Hotham has been indiſpoſed for ſome Days. Baron Ginkel, Envoy Extraordinary from the States General of the United Province, had a few Days ago a private Audience of his Pruſſian Majeſty.

Camp at Muhlberg, June 25. Fri. was the laſt Day of the Exerciſes of the Troops; and laſt Night was a great Firework upon the Elbe, which was followed with the Illuminations of about 30 Sloops, attended by ſeveral Gondolas and ſmall Boats alſo illuminated; which Sloops fired their Cannon for an Hour or two together, and afterwards there was a fine Concert of Vocal and Inſtrumental Muſic in a very magnificent Sloop under the Shore, where were their Poliſh and Pruſſian Majeſties, and their Company; and the whole Entertainment laſted from Ten in the Evening, till between Three and Four this Morning. Next Tueſ. both their Majeſties go to a Place above five German Miles off, where the Day after they will take the Diverſion of Hunting, and the next Morn. his Pruſſian Majeſty will take his Leave, and continue his Journey to Potſdam. His Poliſh Majeſty will return to the Camp.

Hague, June 4. The States of Holland met again this Day; and the Great Penſionary was preſent at the Aſſembly. Several Ships have been taken up at Amſterdam, for tranſporting the Troops deſigned for Don Carlos. We have received Advice, that the King of Poland's Encampment in Saxony is broke up, and that the King of Pruſſia is returned to Berlin, from whence he is to ſet out the 10th Inſt. for Anſpach, and thence to proceed to Weſel.

This Gentleman is a Cardinal-Prieſt, and Datary of the Holy See; a Native of Sezza in the Eccleſiaſtical State, and made a Cardinal by Clement XI, in 1712. He has the Character of a Perſon of ſingular Merit, a Lover of Juſtice, humble and impartial, and one who has no Relations to load with Church-Benefices.——All the Accounts from Vienna, by this Poſt, ſeem no Way favourable to the Peace. The Emperor's Artillery and Ammunition are ordered to Italy, where he already has near 90,000 Men including thoſe in Sicily, Naples and the Milaneſe. No Anſwer is yet made to the Ultimatum. The Emperor tells the G. D. of Tuſcany, he will never recede from the Quadruple Alliance; and the G. D. aſſures the Emperor, he ſhall not want Money or Proviſions. Extract of a Letter from Paris; bearing Date, July 4. Beſides ſeveral adventitious Pamphlets, which come out in the Dark, on the Side of Liberty, there is a Flying Sheet, as they call it, intitled Nouvelles Eccleſiaſtiques, that appears like a Meteor every Week; for no body knows from whence it comes, nor whither it goes; and yet it is ſeen by all France. It is printed ſometimes in one Town, and ſometimes in another, and ſometimes in no Town at all, but in a Barge upon the River. It contains Stories from every Part of the Kingdom, of Oppreſſion, Superſtition, Violence and Corruption, intermixed with Raillery, Banter, and Joke, of and upon the contrary Party, the Moliniſts: In ſhort, when-ever they meet with a ſore Place in the Character of a Jeſuit, Biſhop, or Cardinal, they rub it till it ſmarts. And this Paper is ſo nicely managed, as to elude the utmoſt Vigilance of the Government. Mr. Peter Black, now in Newgate on a Confeſſion for the Murder of his own Daughter, two Years ſince, behaves himſelf there to all Appearance like one diſtracted; and the Pariſh Officers where the Child was buried have been acquainted with the Affair; and upon a ſtrict Inquiry made of the Searchers who viewed the Child, it ſhould ſeem ſhe died a Natural Death.

Wednesday, July 1. Yeſt. the new Church at Deptford was Conſecrated by the Ld. Bp. of London.

At the laſt Place an Embargo is laid on 5000 Tons of Shipping, to tranſport their Troops, which to the Number of 40,000 complete, are on a full March towards the Coaſts.——And from Holland we learn, that ſtrange Havock is there making with the Sodomites, of all which we may ſoon expect farther Particulars.

We have the following unaccountable Story from Glaſgow, under the 15th of laſt Month: viz. One Mr. Whitehal, Clerk to Collector Walker, after having, as uſual, ſupped with his Landlady, told her "That he behoved to "have ſome ſtout Fellows to ſit up the Night with him; "for that Night at ſuch an Hour and Minute, he was either to die or be carried off." After the Men were procured and come, he fell into divers Fits of Horror, thruſting himſelf into Corners, &c. and died accordingly at the very Hour and Minute predicted.——This is ſince confirmed, with theſe Circumſtances: That he became, for ſome Time before his Death, moroſe and chagrin, whereas he was naturally facetious and cheary; and two or three Days before this fatal Period, he told a Perſon in the Neighbourhood, who had paid him up the current Quarter; "That "he was ſo much indebted to the ſaid Perſon:" "What "then, replied the other; we ſhall reckon afterwards." "But, anſwered the Clerk; "I am to die ſuch a Day, "Hour, and Minute." And ſo it happened preciſely. However unaccountable this Narrative may ſeem, yet we are aſſured the Particulars above and before narrated are materially true.

Yeſt. began the Seſſions at the Old-Baily, whereat were tried 24 Priſoners, of whom 12 were caſt for Tranſportation, but none convicted Capitally.

They write from Dublin, the 20th of June laſt, that one Mr. Wm. Murray ſold a Piece of Cloth, made of Hemp at the Linnen-Hall there, which exceeded any Flax for Whiteneſs, and it is ſaid, that it is impoſſible to make any Dutch Holland ſo white; ſo that they hope the Nobility and Gentry of theſe Kingdoms will encourage our own Manufactures.

Munday*, who keeps the Crown Inn at Woodbridge, in Suffolk, had been robbed, by one of his Drawers, of a conſiderable Sum of Money. Afterwards, one of the Paſſengers ſitting at a Door near Rumford, ſaw a young Fellow indifferently mounted, without Boots or Whip, whom by the Deſcription he ſuppoſed to be the Perſon who committed the Robbery, and according charged him with it, which he at firſt denied, but being carried before a Majeſtrate, confeſſed. Upon ſearching him, 56l. 3s. 3d. was found in his Pocket.——One James Harris was committed to the Gatehouſe, on Suſpicion of robbing on the Highway, on Edgeworth Road, on the Information of Mr. Lewis, at the Nag's Head in Swallow Street, having been apprehended and taken by the ſaid Mr. Lewis.——One Weſt is committed to Chelmsford Jail, for Horſe ſtealing.——*Tho. On his Complaint to the Bench of Juſtices, then ſitting at Weſtm. they granted a Bench Warrant, and ordered the High-Conſtable, with a Poſſe, to apprehend them. Harvey was ſeized and committed to the Gatehouſe; but his Wife made her Eſcape.——Anne Smith is committed to Newgate, for ſtealing a Shirt and Handkerchief.——As is *Tho.
